WRITING

Blogs and bloggers, needed or not?

For about 20 years people have been writing and reading blogs. Nowadays, blogs are a new method of transferring information and news among the people. So, what impact blogs have on the whole world?

The writers, who produce the content, obviously benefit from it. They gain an opportunity to express their thoughts and opinions and be supported by people at the same time, not only mentally but sometimes even financially.

On the other side, humanity <sup>has</sup> ~~have~~ always been attracted to the knowledge. That is why there are those who "consume". Not everybody is willing to create, some people just tend to discover something new about the others and think about it deeply, in details.

From my point of view, there are some advantages for both readers and writers. ~~The~~ Readers should express their support towards the writers and the writers should thank their supporters properly, this is how mutually connected things work.
